colleague,

On behalf of the Korean American Dental Association, it is my pleasure to welcome you to the 16th Biennial Scientific Conference in this lovely desert city, Las Vegas, tomorrow and the evening of the night.

Our Biennial Scientific Conference has a long history of excellence, 50 years of educational programs to exceed expectations. Topics from endodontics to oral surgery to orthodontics, periodontics to prosthodontics, and orthodontics, will stress the importance of the interdisciplinary nature of our practices. Both experienced practitioners as well as those new to the field will all be engaged and enlightened by the cutting-edge presentations of this year's invited speakers. While people always say "what happens in Las Vegas stays in Las Vegas," I am certain that the knowledge gained in this scientific conference will certainly come back with you to your practices, wherever that may be.

Our KADA President, Dr. Seonho Ha, have made every effort to cover all the details of this important gathering. Dr. Brian Hong, the immediate past president, and Dr. Pilsoong Kim, the next president has provided their enthusiastic support and assistance. The committee members have worked tirelessly between this conference and their busy practices schedules to make sure that the educational programs as well as the evening and social events reflect this beautiful resort setting. I would like to thank all of them for their dedication and contributions. I also would like to thank our sponsors. Our quality educational programs reflect their continued support and partnership in the common vision for our profession.

The KADA is committed to providing a leadership role to the well as the Korean American dental community, seeing you all there - to share knowledge and to camaraderie from the opening of the meeting to the year, which is the 2013 KADA Christmas Party in Las Vegas.
